Since Hee Welling first debuted the Rely chair in 2020, the collection has been embraced for its use of environmentally-friendly materials and ergonomic design. Now, Welling has revealed a new addition to the line that boasts the same understated appearance, but with an optimized design that makes it suitable for outdoor use.

Made from 100% recycled plastic, Welling incorporated a series of functional details to strengthen it against the elements. UV protection ensures that its plastic frame won't bleach in sunlight, while a small hole in the seat allows water to escape during rain showers. The new HW70 comes in crisp Black or White.
